place in the suburbs in which some two persons were killed—among them an American named Bond. Three hundred slaves have recently been landed on the coast of Pernambuco. Where were the American and English men-of-war?

Another terrible fatal collision took place on the Michigan Southern Railroad last Tuesday. Three cars filled with emigrants were smashed, causing the immediate death of some twenty persons, and severely injuring fifty or sixty others. Will these wholesale slaughters of human beings on railroads never cease?

The Falcon arrived at New Orleans on Tuesday with one hundred thousand dollars in California gold.

Father Gavazzi delivered his free lecture to the industrial classes last evening in the Tabernacle, which was crowded. His remarks were received with the most enthusiastic applause, although there were some present who expressed their dissent by frequently hissing. Our report of the lecture is unavoidably deferred.

Miss Lucy Stone last evening delivered her second lecture at Metropolitan Hall, taking for her subject "Woman's Legal and Political Disabilities." The hall was not more than one-third filled, but, small as was the audience, considerable impatience was manifested prior to the appearance of the fair lecturer on the platform. She was dressed in full Bloomer costume, with her hair closely cut, and impressed the spectator with the conviction that she was fully able to maintain the rights of woman under any and all circumstances—either upon the rostrum or in private life. We regret being under the necessity of deferring a full report of her lecture.

The Kings County Court of Oyer and Terminer was yesterday engaged in hearing the case of Lewis Crawford, who is indicted for the manslaughter of John Ward, in an affray, last January, on the corner of Fulton avenue and Adelphi street, Brooklyn. The examination of witnesses was not concluded prior to the adjournment of the Court. The trial of Bernard Hogan, charged with the murder of his wife, in February last, was deferred till to-morrow, owing to the illness of prisoner's counsel.

The weekly meeting of the Board of the Ten Governors of the Almshouse was held yesterday at the usual hour. N. B. Hunt, Esq., District Attorney, was present, and recommended the sale of the City Prison—the money received to be used in erecting a suitable building in some other portion of the city.

A resolution was offered by Mr. Herrick, requesting the Common Council to appoint a committee of conference, to meet with the Board and to petition the Legislature to empower the Board of Supervisors to raise a sum of money for the purpose of erecting another building for a city prison, as the condition of the present establishment of the kind was so unhealthy as to have caused the deaths of several persons recently confined therein. A communication from Mr. Edmunds, the keeper of the Tombs, was read, praying the Board to suspend their opinions in relation to the fatal occurrence which took place at the City Prison a few days ago, until a more thorough and scientific investigation was effected.

The steamship Canada is now in her eleventh day from Liverpool to Halifax, with three days' later news from Europe.

The Kaine extradition case—Discharge of the prisoner.

This long litigated case is over, and, by the decision of Judge Nelson, delivered yesterday, the prisoner is discharged, the claim of the British government not having been made in accordance with the law of nations, as interpreted by our judiciary.

Our readers will recollect that Thomas Kaine, claimed by the British government as a fugitive from justice, he having fired at, with intent to kill, a farmer in Ireland named Balfe, was first apprehended on a warrant issued by Commissioner Brigham, under the treaty, and on examination was found guilty, and directed to be detained in custody to abide the order of the President of the United States. A writ of habeas corpus was sued out by the prisoner, returnable to the United States Circuit Court, where Judge Betts, who presided, dismissed the writ, and remanded the prisoner to the custody of the Marshal; the Acting Secretary of State afterwards issued his warrant, directing that the prisoner be delivered up to Mr. Barclay, her Britannic Majesty's consul. Subsequently an application was made to Judge Nelson, at Chambers, for a writ of habeas corpus, to bring up the prisoner on an alleged illegal detention, which he refused until the whole of the proceedings were laid before him. This was done, and Judge Nelson, on reviewing the testimony, adjourned the case to the Supreme Court of the United States. That court dismissed the adjourned case for the want of jurisdiction, and it remained, therefore, for a final hearing at Chambers, as the prisoner was in custody under the authority of that writ.

The argument came on before Judge Nelson, and yesterday he delivered his decision, reviewing the whole case, and coming to the conclusion that the prisoner should be discharged. He gave it as his opinion that the demand for the surrender of the fugitive should have been first made directly upon the government, and its consent and authority obtained before the judiciary could be called into requisition. He also decided that the Commissioner had no jurisdiction, not being an officer within the treaty or act of Congress.

A new warrant for the arrest of Kaine was issued by the representative of the British government; but, after some discussion, the Attorney of the United States deemed it advisable to counsel the Marshal not to execute it in the face of the decision which had just been delivered.

The case has created considerable discussion everywhere through town, and the general impression is, that it is a decision against the British government and an Irish party triumph. This is not so. The representative of Her Britannic Majesty applied to our executive authorities for a warrant for his arrest; it was granted, the case was investigated, and the prisoner was directed to be detained in custody to abide the order of the President of the United States; that order was sent for his surrender to the British authorities, a writ of habeas corpus was sued out, the judiciary step in, and, after the long protracted investigations which we have detailed, the case resulted yesterday in the discharge of the prisoner.

The question now will be, is the Ashburton treaty a nullity?

AMERICANS ON THE EUROPEAN TOUR.—The number of distinguished Americans lionizing throughout Europe, and spreading Yankee notions, republican ideas and common sense all the way from the Giants' Causeway to St. Petersburg, seems to be far more considerable at the present moment than at any other period in our history. During the coming summer these American missionaries in England and over the Continent will receive a vast accession of strength, and we may reasonably anticipate that the result of their operations in these benighted lands will be stupendous.

Among the Americans who leave this port for England by the steamer Arctic on next Saturday, are ex-President Van Buren, his son Martin, and Mr. Murray, Senator from this city to the State Legislature. The venerable uncle of Lindenwald will be the first ex-President of the United States that ever visited Europe, and he will doubtless attract great attention wherever he goes. Since the memorable epoch when his brilliant son, Prince John, danced that cotillon with the royal Miss Alexandra Victoria, that distinguished lady has annually given living proofs of her obedience to that most ancient of divine commands, "Be fruitful, and multiply, and replenish the earth," and Mr. Van Buren will, perhaps, arrive in London about the important period when the godfathers and godmothers of the last august youthful stranger will promise and vow for him those three things laid down in the ceremony of baptism. It would be a very curious and interesting matter if an ex-President of the United States should officiate as one of the sponsors of the royal baby, and if the latter little distinguee should number among his string of Christian names that of Martin. As the Spaniards say, quien sabe—who knows!

THE NORTH AMERICAN FISHERIES.—Mr. Everett's LETTER TO MR. INGERSOLL.—We publish in another portion of our columns to-day a communication from the Hon. Edward Everett, ex-Secretary of State, to Mr. Ingersoll, the United States Minister at London, giving the views of the then administration, and of the writer particularly, in reference to the questions of colonial fisheries and general commercial reciprocity, and defending the memory of Mr. Webster from the imputation levelled at it by Lord Malmesbury, in a speech delivered by him in the British House of Peers.

This letter is dated the 4th of December, 1852, the postscript to it, however, bearing the date of 23d December. A copy of it was transmitted, with a message from President Fillmore, to the Senate on the 28th of February, with several other State documents on the same subject, all of which were read for the first time on the 8th of March, and ordered to be printed, in confidence, for the use of the Senate. The injunction of confidence, or secrecy, has since, however, been removed, and in publishing the letter referred to we do so well knowing the interest which it is calculated to create as an emanation from the highly polished mind of him who, since the death of his lamented predecessor, Mr. Webster, may well be considered as par excellence, the great New England statesman.

At the present time, too, we regard the publication of this document as of peculiar importance. The weighty questions pending between these States and the British North American colonies are now on the eve of a full and final settlement. Mr. Buchanan, the newly appointed minister to England, being entrusted with unlimited power to regulate them on behalf of this country. Mr. Everett's letter, will, therefore, doubtless, attract much attention, and his spirited rejoinder to the British peer, who sneeringly assailed the political character of Mr. Webster, will meet the approbation of all Americans.

THE SITE FOR THE MILITARY HOSPITAL.—RETURN OF THE PROSPECTING PARTY.—General Scott's expedition last summer, as far as the region of the Blue Lick, in search of an eligible site for a military hospital, not having produced any result, regular or political, another prospecting party was sent out on the same mission, and after having travelled over several of the Western States making explorations and reconnoissances, they have returned to this metropolis, en route for Washington.

This highly important matter was confided to a committee of seven officers, comprising Gen. Scott, Gen. Wool, Gen. Twiggs, Gen. Jessup, Surgeon-General Lawson, and two others. The locating committee which performed this philanthropic pilgrimage to the West, consisted of the three last named officers, all of whom, accompanied by Lieut. Cummings, aide-de-camp to Gen. Twiggs, arrived here on their return, and took up their quarters at the St. Nicholas, on Monday.

The result of this mission is of course kept a secret, and will not transpire until the 5th of May, when the committee will collectively present their report. Gen. Scott has reported against the Blue Lick location, so there is no chance whatever of its selection. We have cause, however, to guess that the choice of the locating committee has fallen on the Harrodsburg Springs, in Kentucky, a place which may be considered as the Baden-Baden of America. It is situated near the geographical centre of the State, being but eight miles from the Kentucky river, and twenty-eight from Lexington. The springs, which are six or eight in number, are said to possess wonderful medicinal qualities, and to be of great efficacy in certain chronic diseases to which old soldiers who have served in hot climates are peculiarly liable. As a site for a hospital the springs are appropriate, the predominant ingredient of the water being sulphate of magnesia, or Epsom salt, and particularly well adapted, according to a medical report, to sanguineous and bilious temperaments.

We understand that though the committee traversed a large portion of Pennsylvania, Ohio, and Kentucky, they did not see any place so well adapted for the site of a military hospital as these springs of Harrodsburg, and so we would not be at all surprised to find that in their report they recommend it above all others indicated to them. It will be a great relief to the national mind when this weighty and troublesome matter is disposed of, and when finally the institution is established in which "The tired soldier, bold and brave,

May rest his wearied feet."

We hope, therefore, that the committee will be unanimous in their report, and that it will not be necessary to fit out another expedition to those distant regions of the Far West in search of a site for a military hospital.

THE OTHER.—It is only necessary to announce that Albon and her grand troupe will appear in "La Gazza Lupa," to insure a full house, but we do not know where all the admirers of "Lucia, Borgia," will find room within the walls of Niblo's, who will find room on the occasion of Salvi's benefit. It will be the last night of that splendid opera, and we shall probably never see it with such a cast of characters again.

THE HYPOCRISY.—The dress rehearsal is given at this establishment on Friday evening is got up solely for the attendance of gentlemen connected with the editorial department of the newspaper press, and that it will be totally incompatible with their arrangements to extend the privilege to any other applicants. It is not even intended to admit ladies on that occasion.

THE THEATRE.—Owing to the great press of advertisements and news upon our columns, we are obliged to omit our usual theatrical notices. We would direct the attention of our readers, however, to the advertisements of the different places of amusement, and remind them that Mr. Burton takes his benefit at the Bowery, 44 Broadway, Mr. Forrest appears for the fifth time at this season. The play of "Civilization" will be repeated at Burton's. At the National, Wallack's, the St. Charles, American Museum, Greys, Christy's, Wood's, Heller's, Bayard's, and Owen's, the programmes announced will well repay the visitor.

Talk.—Chambers.—The Humboldt, with the character of the news received from California, were the chief topics of conversation.
